

“I’ve known Greg at RS&Co. for nearly a decade and we began working together in 2012. It was a time of transition in taking over the family business years ago, and it was imperative that we converted from a sole proprietorship to a LLC. With Greg’s knowledge, expertise and forward-thinking approach, we were able to finalize things after years of delay. Greg was an integral part of our succession planning team, and we still count on him today for both our business and personal accounting needs. Team is a good way to define our relationship, as we meet quarterly to discuss the business usually over a lunch. Over these years, we’ve worked together as trusted advisors for shared clients closely; I never hesitate to give out his name.”

“Joe and Greg are highly knowledgeable and provide sound guidance and advice on anything financial related for my business. With my previous CPA, it was a hectic fire drill every quarter before taxes were due. We never knew what taxes were coming and I felt like we were behind one step. With Joe and Greg’s guidance, there are never any surprises and we’re one step ahead. They work with us every step of the way and are also available in a moment’s notice should I have a financial question.”

“I’ve known and been working with Greg and the RS&Co. team for more than three decades. That’s a long time and although somewhat cliché, I consider them family. As a business owner, it is reassuring to have one team that can see the who picture and provide both business and personal accounting services. But it’s more than quality work. Greg’s dedication, enthusiasm and positive outlook is beyond reproach and these are qualities he’s instilled in the team that surrounds him. When they say ‘trusted advisor’, I smile and know they mean Greg.”
